Personal Statement:

My name is Reilly Parga; I am an 8th grader at Harvest Middle School and I plan to attend Napa High School next school year. In college, I plan to major in Law to pursue my long term goal of becoming a criminal lawyer. My strong desire to attend college is also driven by my passion for softball. Softball has already gifted me countless opportunities to meet and play for a variety of coaches and meet hardworking players like myself. I am ready and willing to do whatever it takes to become the best softball player that I am capable of becoming; I am a coachable, adaptable player who is constantly wanting to level up and learn more. I am an uplifting teammate and leader on and off the field.

I realize that academics are of utmost importance which is why when given the opportunity, I choose advanced classes and continue my Spanish-English biliteracy education.

Besides my future goals with education and softball, my character is mainly built from my family values. Being the oldest of five kids, I feel that I carry the responsibility to set high standards for being a self-starter that has strong work ethic and integrity. I also work as hard as I do because I know that I cannot take anything for granted and that nothing will be handed to me.

Softball has taught me many things, but one that really sticks out is how I have learned how to self motivate even when I don't feel like practicing, because I know that if I want a spot on the field or in any situation in life, I have to put in the work for it.

These traits you'll find in my self are the reasons I feel set me apart from the crowd. I find these lessons applicable on and off the field and they have helped me to advance as a player and a young woman with a character who strives for excellence.
