Personal Statement

I am always working hard on and off the field trying to be better than I was the day before weather it is being a better friend, person, player, or working on academics. I have two mottos that I read and live by every day. The first one is the player you are today should be able to outplay the player you were yesterday. The second one is A winner is that person who gets up one more time than he or she was knocked down. I like to train like I am a loser and play as a winner. This is something my dad always tells me, which is be strong when you feel weak, brave despite being scared, and humble when victorious. I am dedicated to this game so much that I will do whatever it takes to reach the top and be successful because I put in the hours, effort, and work.
